February 5, 2025

Dear Mr. Gassaway,

Thank you for your invitation from February 3rd to meet with you and Ms Moy to "explore any economic development opportunities related to businesses that have expressed interest to your team in locating in Solano County." We would be happy to meet with you, Ms Moy, and other council members to explore potential economic development opportunities related to the businesses that California Forever is bringing to Solano County.

However, we first need to understand how Ms Moy plans to repair the significant reputational damage she has caused the city of Fairfield, and all of Solano County, through her persistent campaign of slander and misinformation in the press and on social media.

Ms Moy has repeatedly demonstrated her hostility to the very investors and companies you seek to engage, for example telling CNBC that they should, "Take their billions and go back down to Silicon Valley." Even yesterday, Ms Moy was quoted in the press saying "residents would continue to fight the billionaires in a David-versus-Goliath style civil war." This is hardly a warm welcome for the businesses who want to make a $30+ billion private investment here.

Nine months ago, Ms Moy told CBS News, "We don't need people to parachute in. We don't need them to come here and fix it… Our economic people are calling them [the businesses] already and saying, 'Come here right now. You don't have to wait for infrastructure. We have places here for you to do this."

But here's the reality: since her election, Ms Moy has attracted exactly zero significant employers to Fairfield.

California Forever has demonstrated that it is uniquely able to create the environment which will draw these businesses to Solano County. By making a $30+ billion private investment, California Forever can be the catalyst that transforms Solano County into an employment cluster, both in the new community and in all nearby cities.

Another significant concern for us is that Ms Moy continues to use Travis Air Force Base as a cudgel to fight against the very housing opportunities that the military has repeatedly acknowledged it needs. Any resident who has lived in Solano County long enough is well aware of the tactic used by anti-growth radicals who bought their homes decades ago for a fraction of their current value, and are now using Travis AFB as false cover to stop young homebuyers and military families from having a shot at the American Dream themselves.

It is alarming to us that Ms Moy continues to purport to speak for Travis AFB. As an elected official, she is well aware of the weight of her words, especially as mayor of the home city of Travis. She must also be aware that only the Base Commander and the Command Structure of the United States Air Force is authorized to speak on behalf of Travis AFB. So her line of messaging that runs contrary to statements already issued by the Air Force is deeply inappropriate, and quite frankly troubling.

Travis AFB has been on the record twice as it relates to our project, both in a statement on their site and at the Solano County Airport Land Use Commission ("Bottom line, Travis AFB effectively executes our mission within the current airspace configuration and does not require any alterations to this plan." Lieutenant Colonel Ed Silva, Director of Operations for the 60th OSS. Both statements made it clear that the project poses no threat to the base and, indeed, could provide affordable homes for airmen and their families – something Ms Moy has entirely failed to achieve during her time as mayor.

Just yesterday, from the Council dais, Ms Moy once again referenced alleged meetings during which she has been presented with "confidential" information that has been released to her from the Air Force related to our project. It is a disservice to the men and women of the Air Force and to this community for her to continue to use Travis AFB for her own political agenda.

We remain interested in conversations with community partners who share a vision for a brighter future for Solano County and its future generations. To engage in such conversations demands honesty and fair dealing, and we are rightly concerned that Ms Moy has proven herself either unable or unwilling to deal with any facts or reality. While we recognize her well-established fondness for theatrics and media spotlight, these are serious times and serious issues, and should be treated with the respect they deserve.

Again, we welcome the opportunity to identify partnership opportunities and ways to work together with the City of Fairfield. However, as long as Ms Moy, as the public face of Fairfield, treats the Air Force, us, and the community as a political game, we do not see how employers can be brought to Fairfield.

Ms Moy can either be a mouthpiece for anti-growth radicals stuck in the 1980s, or she can be a pro-business mayor. She cannot be both.

Could you please let us know how the city plans to address the brand problems Ms Moy has created? Once we understand that better, we would be happy to meet to discuss economic development.

Sincerely,
California Forever
